

INDIA HEALTH FUND

A TATA TRUSTS INITIATIVE

This quarter, we bring to you the latest interim report from India Health Fund (IHF).

Month-by-month, as we inch closer to the national goals of eliminating tuberculosis (TB) by 2025 and malaria by 2030, we realize that a business-as-usual approach will not be enough for eliminating infectious diseases. We need ground-breaking technologies, disruptive models and out-of-the-box thinking. The modus operandi must change. This is where a unique player such as India Health Fund comes into picture. De-risking and boosting the development of science- and tech-led solutions for infectious diseases, India Health Fund's work ensures that pioneering solutions don't end up in the valley of death, and instead land in the remotest corners to the hands of those who need them the most.

Here are a few highlights from the last few months at IHF:

New financing agreements signed to tackle TB and vector-borne diseases with platform solutions:

An innovative child-friendly sample collection device for TB

An AI-powered platform for faster, cost-effective and accurate microscopy for disease diagnosis

A game-changer fever panel for rapid detection of chikungunya, dengue and malaria

First-of-its-kind non-invasive AI tool to detect TB by mapping cough signatures in minutes

Latest photo stories from the field:

In all roles of India Health Fund -- as a financing mechanism, mentor, connector, and scale-up facilitator -- partnerships are a key part of helping us become a catalyst for change. From our partners who help us narrow down the gaps in infectious diseases, to those who seek our help in building innovations, to those who support us to take the products to the last mile, and those who have believed in our mission and funded us – our founders Tata Trusts. To all these critical partners, we are very grateful.

We welcome you to read our latest update

READ FULL REPORT HERE

© 2021 India Health Fund, All rights reserved.

India Health Fund
3rd Floor, Elphinstone Building, Veer Nariman Road, Horniman Circle, Fort, Mumbai 400001

Email: contact@indiahealthfund.org